

Cancer Research UK

Patient discussion day

As we learn more about cancer we are beginning to understand the important role of early diagnosis.

The Policy Team at Cancer Research UK are looking for people to take part in a discussion about how people are diagnosed with cancer and what we could be asking the Government to do to improve earlier diagnosis of cancer.

We need patients and carers who live within easy travelling distance from Birmingham who have experienced the diagnosis of cancer in the last few years to come and share their story at a day-long event on 21st April 2010.

If you're interested please email us on patient.day@cancer.org.uk and we'll send you more information on the day and how to apply.

Get involved!

Together we will beat cancer
